The animals did the same thing every time.
The cows gave milk. The hens laid eggs.
The sheep always eat grass. BAAA!

The smallest duckling went into the barn and look under the hay. He found a football.

"That looks fun!" barked the sheepdog. "Pass the ball to me!"

"We need someone big to go in goal!" quacked the duckling. "I'm big! Let me go in goal!" snorted the cow.

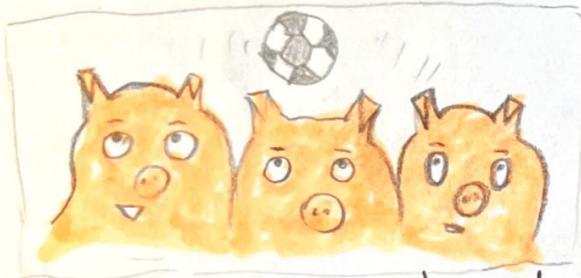

"I'm a good kicker!" brayed the donkey. "Can I join in?"

"So am I!" neighed the horse. "Let me play too!"

Then the pigs came along and played piggy in middle.

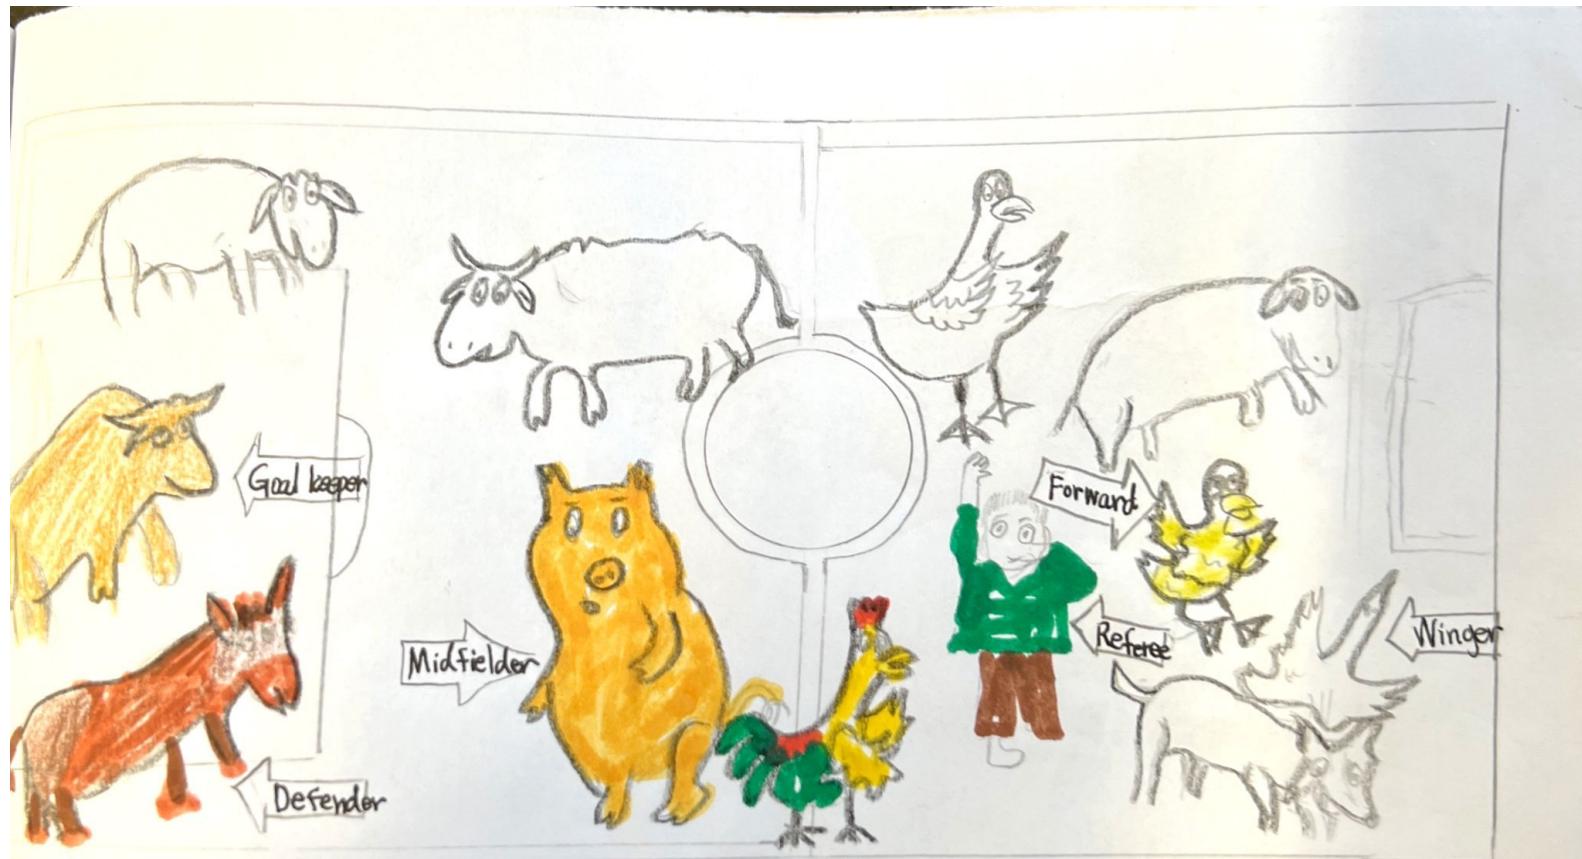

The hens and the ducks and the geese played on the wing.

The sheep were woolly jumpers, so they were good at headers.

The cows were slow, but they were good dribblers.

The next day; they were going to ~~have~~ have a football match.
Look! Here is their arrangement.

After the game it was bath time. All the animals jumped in the pond - SPLASH!

"That was good fun for EVERYONE!" said the animals.

After that, all the animals went happily back to work.
